

Value Proposition

BioNTX is the bioscience and healthcare innovation trade organization serving North Texas. We are a regional affiliate of the Washington, DC based, Biotechnology Innovation Organization (BIO).

We work to build a strong bioscience and healthcare innovation community through collaborative peer to peer networking events, high-level educational programming, supporting companies with a purchasing consortium and by being the voice and champion for the North Texas biosciences and healthcare innovation community.

How can BioNTX help you?

Advocate for policies and actions that grow and improve our industry sectors and drive meaningful policy change for members and patients.

Receive discounts on BioNTX events throughout the year and save on lab equipment, lab supplies, office supplies, software, and business services through our Cost Savings Consortium.

Connect and build relationships with entrepreneurs, researchers, health professionals, executives, and investors by fostering community to educate, collaborate and raise awareness.

Provide heightened visibility for your company, your news, innovations, job positions, products, and services through our website and weekly newsletters.

Foster connections with private investment capital and facilitate access to funding from state and federal grant opportunities.

Access to our Talent Network to quickly fill your open job opportunities with the best candidates and connect with top talent from our world-class universities.

CONTACT US

Aaron BenComo, MD | Director of Business Development

abencomo@biontx.org