

EY Beyond Borders Report Highlights Findings Specific to Texas Market

Texas is well known for its determination and independence. What is not well known is that Texans are collaborative and are working together to make a difference in the bioscience industry in the Lone Star State.

Join us and hear from EY when they again present the Texas version of their global Beyond Borders – Biotechnology Report at the Annual iC³ Life Science & Healthcare Innovation Summit on Thursday, September 28th - Friday, September 29th.

With insights into capital allocation strategies, investor perspectives, financial performance, and other key topics, the EY yearly analysis of the state of our industry helps global biotech leaders forge a path towards operational resilience and long-term value creation.
